DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2 and 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mashiko et al.

Mashiko et al teach a method of making a heat sink including the step of mounting separate fins to the base. By applicant's description of how this occurs in his invention, in the specification on page 4, lines 25 – page 5, line 2, and again at page 7, lines 5-9, the fins of applicant's invention are insert molded to the base, which is precisely what Mashiko does (see claims 1-6). The fins of Mashiko et al are provided on the surface of the base plate as the base plate is molded, and therefore the order of Mashiko et al's steps does not include mounting the fins after the base plate is formed. However, When the fins are mounted to the base plate is considered an obvious matter of design choice absent any showing of a new or unusual result and applicant has never, in the specification or arguments given any reason that the timing is critical. Applicant merely argues that they are separate pieces, which they are in Mashiko et al.

Furthermore, applicant specifically states in the specification, on page 7, lines 5-7, "Preferably, an array of heat dissipating pins 20 are also formed as emanating from or embedded within the base plate 18, such as by insert molding."

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
